New Yorkers Want Moore Property For Dude Ranch

J. Carl (Jack) Kriendler, of the famed Twenty-One Club in New York City, has been negotiating with George Gordon Moore, owner of the 23,000-acre Rancho San Carlos, for some time and negotiations in a quarter of a million dollar deal were believed late yesterday to be near consummation.

Moore and his nephew, Kim Moore, left hurriedly yesterday noon for San Francisco where final signatures were expected to be made to contracts involving a ten-year lease of the beautiful valley property.

It has been rumored that Moore turned down offers of a million dollars for the extensive estate, one from William Randolph Hearst interests several years ago and a more recent offer not long after foreclosure cut some 11,000 acres from the ranch.

Reports current in Carmel for some weeks have been that Kriendler would turn the Rancho San Carlos into one of the finest dude ranches in the west. Kriendler was here last week and went over the ranch at that time before returning to southern California where other interests reportedly share his time.

Besides beautiful mountain acres, the ranch includes handsome Spanish style buildings, swimming pool, polo and aviation fields and an artificial lake. There are also a slaughter house and a lumber mill.

The Carmel Valley has been agog over recent events involving real estate transactions, among these being the sale of Robles del Rio Lodge and tract, announced by Frank Porter in Salinas this week, to David Prince, former Carmelite, and his partner, William Woods. Both men have a wide experience in the hotel business.

One of the biggest valley sales in some time developed in the Allen Griffin property of which several hundred acres of the James Meadows tract were sold to Charles and Mary Oden.

In Carmel one of the most interesting real estate turnovers in a long time involved the beautiful "Wild-air" property on Casanova, a portion of which went to Professor Anthony Blanks of the University of California, now residing here while on sabbatical leave. He purchased two lots of the former Harrison property.

Several other deals involved the exchange between Fred W. Thurston and A. J. Worcester, Thurston taking over Point property for Highlands property.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sinclair (Mrs. Leonard is the former Ivy Basham), recently purchased the Hal Garrott house near the beach and will make their home here. Sinclair is a city engineer.

Already Carmel has felt the effect of PWA sanitary plant improvement with several families of engineers and workers on the plant renting homes for the duration of the $97,000 construction job.

Adams' First Aid Class Graduates

Diplomas were handed to nine members of the Red Cross first aid class conducted by Birney W. Adams at a meeting at the fire house Monday evening.

This was the first class graduated entirely under Adams' instruction and all but those who were unable to continue the course made the final grade.

Members of the class were Alex Gibson, Charles Guth, Gil Severns, Miss Frances Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Del Des Rosiers, Bob Leidig, Charles Palmer and Irvin B. Foster.

Col. T. B. Taylor, Red Cross disaster relief chairman, presented the certificates and read a letter from the San Francisco Red Cross office complimenting Adams for his good work, done entirely on a volunteer basis.

Adams was presented with a first aid kit in recognition of his services over an 11-week period.

FRED LEIDIG HOME AFTER RATTLESNAKE BITE

Fred Leidig returned to his home yesterday from hospital in Salinas where he had been treated for rattlesnake bite.

Fred had been prospecting in the Gabilan range with Harry Lachmund when he was struck in the left leg by a rattler on Tuesday afternoon.

Lachmund rushed him to hospital and yesterday Leidig was reported in good condition in spite of his experience.

Carmel Woman's Club Now Leading Attack on Highway Billboard Menace

Carmel Woman's Club is beginning to get up steam about billboards on the highways. Following preliminary promotion of the idea in the club's garden section, interest has been aroused in the whole club to "do something" in a really effective way to assist the movement which State Senator Edward Tickle is leading in the state legislature with his Senate Bill 1011 and his assembly bill 1012, for the regulation of outdoor advertising.

An open meeting for all those interested in legislation on billboards is being held at the Hotel San Carlos in Monterey on Monday noon and anyone may attend. A speaker is being brought down by the Monterey chamber of commerce for this occasion.

Carmel Old Timers Join In First Festive Reunion

Members of Carmel's Old Guard, the people who drifted into town before Carmel became an incorporated city in November of 1916, joined 55 strong for a first annual reunion at Pine Inn Wednesday afternoon. The occasion was a revival of the Washington's Birthday affairs of old, the masquerades which were customarily held at Manzanita Hall and the feasts which were often celebrated at Pine Inn, itself an original pioneer of this community.

Under the chairmanship of Allen Knight, who came here as a little boy in 1901, the gathering was spared any speeches, as Knight declared that those who had reminiscences should exchange them around the tables.

Letters and telegrams were read from those who were unable to be present, notable among them being a note from Mrs. Jean K. Jordan, widow of the late famed Dr. David Starr Jordan, one of the first residents of "Professors' Row" on Camino Real. Also heard from were Mrs. Maude Hogle, Mrs. Jennie V. Cannon of Berkeley, Madeline Powers Ulman and Adaline D. Gray.

In Mrs. Ulman's communication, she expressed hope for a permanent, artistic city hall for which she declared she would present in the name of her father, Frank Powers, a founder with Frank Devendorf of Carmel, a picture of Point Lobos by the artist, William Keith.

Mrs. Jordan wrote from her Palo Alto home: "As one of the 'ancients' of Carmel, I much regret that it will not be possible for me to attend the First Annual Reunion. With friendly greetings to all. Cordially yours, Jeanie K. Jordan."

Mrs. Willis G. White, who taught many of Carmel's young people in early years, came to the luncheon in Spanish costume and provided a colorful bit to the gathering. Mrs. White, Louis L. Slevin, Miss M. DeNeale Morgan, Lewis Josselyn, John Jordan, and others brought photographs, wooden shoes, early lanterns and oil stoves, and even a bottle of Dr. Charles Peake's cascara wine tonic.

Many of the old timers expected failed to turn up because of the time of day, among those missed being Argyll Campbell, Fred Bechdolt, Fred Leidig—who was suffering from a rattlesnake bite—Mrs. Peter Taylor, Court Arndt, Mrs. Alice Josselyn.

Old Timers Attending

Also present were John F. Tennis, George Teaby, Mrs. Allen Knight.

Anne Martin Wins on Pine Cone Poem

Miss Anne Martin whose poem, "Summer Fog" appeared originally in our issue of October 14, 1938, has just received word that she has received first prize for it in a contest of the Colorado Poetry Society.

The 40 poems which were entered were judged by the professors of English of the Colorado Women's College. Miss Martin's poem was given first place because of its freshness of images and perfection of form.

Carmelites Taking Wing at Peninsula Airport

The Peninsula Airport becomes more than ever a truly peninsula affair with the increase in Carmel fliers reported this week by Alton Walker, manager of the airport.

Johnny Campbell, once a college baseball star; Louis Conlan, one of the younger realtors of Carmel; Winsor Josselyn, in spite of his youth an old timer in this village; young Fred McIndoe; charming and pretty Babette DeMoe; Olga Mathews, Arthur Clay and several others are now avid wingmen.

The following is the latest lineup of Carmel aviators:

Don Quinn, writer of Fibber McGee radio serial, has started today flying the Fairchild, and will take the entire flying course this spring and summer. He lives in Pebble Beach.

Arthur Clay, of McDonald Dairy, will solo next week in the Aeronca, midget airplane parked in front of the Normandy Inn a month or so ago.

Louis Conlan of Carmel Land Co., soloed last week in the Piper Cub, and is now practicing regularly for his solo license.

John Campbell, son of Argyll Campbell, started last Saturday taking instruction and liked his first lesson so well that he took a second lesson so well that he took a second watched from the sidelines.

D. E. Lantz, Carmel Valley, signed up for a full course and took his first lesson Monday and will fly twice a week.

Winsor Josselyn, Carmel, started Tuesday and will fly the Cub twice a week and should solo in two months.

Warren Knapp, Carmel, a high school student, has taken eight lessons and will soon be soloing.

Fred McIndoe, Carmel, another high school student, is continuing his instruction.

Babette DeMoe, Carmel, thrilled the townfolks last Sunday with her precision loops and directional tail spins. Babette does these maneuvers solo, with a parachute strapped to her "just in case" and is proving to be a natural born girl pilot. She flies regularly and takes her friends for hops every week.

Olga Mathews, Carmel road, yesterday thrilled herself and others with a perfect three-point landing after only five lessons. Her instructor is Fred Kane, chief pilot for Monterey Peninsula Airways. Fred is also teaching all the above students. Mrs. Mathews' husband, Tom, received his private license last month and will purchase his own plane this month.

Dick Collins, Pebble Beach, is another new fledgling, and expects to continue this spring.

Dick McGee, Austin, Nev., has flown almost every morning at 8:30 for the last month, and received his solo license last Friday. Monday he chartered the Aeronca plane and flew to Sacramento to attend a horse sale, but apparently was more interested in the flight as he did not bid at the sale.

There are some 35 other students from Monterey and Pacific Grove now flying at the local airport, according to Alton Walker, airport manager.

Eastern Mediterranean Vital Point In European Politics

How the control of the eastern Mediterranean is of vital importance in the political struggle of the great European powers was told to the members of the Current Events section of the Carmel Woman's Club by Mrs. Margaret Grant on Wednesday morning.

The man in the street is incapable of judging the present European struggle by reading the daily accounts in the newspapers, it is only by watching seemingly insignificant events that the trend of affairs can be judged. Bankers' actions, the stock market, journeys of personally powerful statesmen and fleet movements are the small indications of future happenings which should be observed, according to Mrs. Grant.

The eastern Mediterranean was likened by the speaker to the jugular vein of France and Great Britain if it should be closed to them their empire circulation would be stopped. Through this area France controls her gas and oil concessions in the east and Britain her rich Indian empire.

Italy with her strongly fortified Mediterranean islands and numerous air bases around the ocean is the menace to free passage through and must work in accord with these two great powers who in this issue are as strongly united as Siamese twins.

Arabia enters into this struggle as a strong and powerful country uniting into a whole which will then command the respect of the world for its strong fighters, rich resources and her romantic, powerful king, Ibn Said and his Moslem followers. These same Arabs present in Palestine another problem. There a country which they have commanded for 700 years has suddenly been given to the Jewish nation with natural and disastrous results. Here Britain has misstepped and has a nasty tangle to unravel.

Mussolini has his eye on the Moslem peoples and should they turn against France and Britain would be ready to step in to the great confusion of the two nations.

Chamberlain's recent visit to Mussolini was not an empty gesture but an event of great importance due to this situation in the eastern Mediterranean.

This visit had also to do with Egypt, the Sudan, and the French possession of Libya. This last territory is almost surrounded by Italian land and should Mussolini move to acquire it, he would by taking it control the source of the Nile and the fertility of its huge valley, ruin the rich cotton country of British Sudan, the fertility British-protected Egypt and control the entrance to the Red Sea. So Britain must work with Italy for her own good and France must look to Libya, which though worthless as territory for settlers, is a strategic position for Italy.

In the eastern Mediterranean area have arisen four great dictators, Mussolini, Kemal Ataturk, the Shah of Persia and Ibn Said of Arabia, all men who have attained their ambitions and whose countries are now of great consequence in world politics. Arabia, according to Mrs. Grant, is the deciding factor in this struggle. It is a coming power and must be taken into consideration by the great powers of France, Britain and Italy, and be their friend.

In closing Mrs. Grant pointed out that the greatest oil fields in the world also come within this Mediterranean area, though on the Baltic Sea. They are situated in Rumania, Bulgaria and Russia and all output of their product goes through the Dardanelles, controlled by Turkey. Italy had hoped to control this area as a result of her participation in the World War and has always resented its not being given to her. Here rankles a bitter hurt and a potential menace is always to the fore.

Thus in the countries in the Eastern Mediterranean is a situation of direct potential danger to Europe and indirectly the world. A situation little noticed by the ordinary person reading the daily press but of vital importance to all.

Reader's Reaction

Carmel, Calif., Feb. 16, 1939.

The Pine Cone:

A recent issue of your paper contained a letter from Jos. Hitchcock giving information about the Chinese village formerly on the 17-Mile Drive near Pebble Beach. Possibly a few more anecdotes would interest your readers.

On one of my first visits there (about 1907), I was accompanied by two newly-weds. We met Wu Chong, who was most cordial, and went into his hovel, returning with a plate of Chinese candy. Picking up a piece with his fingers, he handed it to the dainty bride. Of course, she was possessed of enough savoir faire to cope with the situation and accepted the gift with profuse thanks. She had recently lunched so could not eat the candy just then.

In those days a very popular souvenir was the giant chiton or sea cradle and Wo Hop seemed to be the only person who had the knack of drying them properly. The attempts by others were very inferior. This item vanished from the shops after Wo Hop left.

Having observed that the village was a pictorial oasis, I sallied over there—on foot, the only method at that time, and shot it up with my camera. One of the residents was sitting in front of his shack smoking a long pipe and he objected very strongly to posing for his picture. However, the pictorial result obtained while he sat there protesting was much better than any artificial pose would have been. It was later used to illustrate a magazine.

It seems a pity that such quaint and interesting spots have to give way to "high-brow" monotonous modernism.

This is the sign of Senor Manuel Duarte. It expresses his attitude toward life, independent, proud, hospitable and with the ability to enjoy life in one spot among his own people. He is Spanish and his family came first to Monterey in 1840 on an American sloop of war. They had come years before from Catalonia to San Lucas where they had tremendous herds of cattle and extensive acres. Life had been simple and rich but then came strife and war. Senor Duarte's grandfather was forced to give cattle to feed American troops. This fact was contorted and traveled over the mountains to Mexico where he was accused of aiding the enemy. An expedition was organized to punish him and so he fled with all his family, wife, sons, daughters, brothers, sisters, uncles, aunts and cousins, all with their wives and children to the shelter of sleepy Monterey. There were over 40 of them in all.

The members of this band are all dead now, but their children's children still live in the little city by the sea, the city washed by the blue Pacific's regular caressing swell and cradled beneath the tall pine covered hills.

No "Rolling Stone"

Senor Duarte was born there and has never been farther away than San Francisco and never wants to. He says he can read and dream and see pictures and so travel to the far places of the earth and still stay in his home beneath the huge, spreading oaks and spend four hours a day in his ship chandler's shop just across from the old Custom House where the fishermen clump by in their heavy rubber boots and stop to talk of the sea and fish, and price his goods and buy when they need.

This is Senor Duarte's life and a rich one it has been. People have come and gone while he has remained. It was one of these people who had passed through the town and left his mark that took me into the exciting smelling shop with its odd assortment of goods one afternoon last week.

Senor Has a Siesta

Senor Duarte was having his siesta on an old leather-covered, horsehair sofa at the back of the store when

THE CARMEL RIVER

By FREDERICK PONCIANO FELIZ
(Written in 1888 and unchanged)

*Listen to the rippling water,
Singing as it glides along:
Now a rill, and now a patter,
Chants in one harmonious song.*

*'Tis the current of Carmel,
That entwining, bending stream,
Whose vibrations thro' the dell
Make the day a pleasant dream.*

*List again, and thou shall hear
Voices from its rocky bed,
Which rejoice since thou art near
To rehearse what they have said:*

*Nature grand, in all her grandeur,
Lies enchanted at our feet,
While the music of that grandeur
Forms the song which I repeat.*

*Walk along these spreading bowers,
Kneel beside my busy falls
When thou shalt perceive those sublime flowers
Nature paints along my walls.*

*Then again in some deep eddy
Where a stream is falling high
Thou shalt listen to a steady,
Yes, a steady mournful sigh.*

*Yet, 'tis not because these verses
Shouldst thou think I'm ever sad,
For my song as oft reverses
As the days that I have clad.*

*Fumbling, tumbling goes my current,
Laughing, shouting on its way
As she forms a bustling torrent
O'er some rocky rapid, gay.*

*Now she glides beneath some shadow,
Now beneath some bending bough,
Rippling o'er some sandy shallow,
Leaping o'er some noisy brow.*

*Then she forms a perfect mirror
'Neath some weeping willow's shade,
Where she seeks if any error
Blurs the robe which she has made.*

*Yet, 'tis not alone she muses
O'er the beauty of this scene,
For our Sylvan God refuses
Not to grant some evergreen:*

*Oaks and ferns along her borders,
Stately pines and poplars gay
Are the grand majestic warders,
All along her winding way.*

*Ages past have borne this splendor
With its rich, enchanting veil,
While the coming days shall render
More sublime this sunny vale.*

Remembers Stevenson

This was the man who talked to Senor Duarte as a small boy and with his kindness and understanding of such small boys left an indelible impression on his mind.

Robert Louis Stevenson was not famous then. He was poor and was often fed, according to Senor Duarte, by the kindly French restaurant keeper, Simoneau, who in his way, fostered the writers and artists who came to the peninsula. Some of them went away and became world-renowned, some of them stayed and are forgotten, but the memory of the happy, carefree group still stays with the old residents of Monterey.

Why we had come to see Senor Duarte and hear about Robert Louis Stevenson was because a man, John Stevenson, who is a cousin of David Balfour Stevenson, cousin of Robert Louis Stevenson, and had known the writer long ago in far off misty Edinburgh, was in Carmel and wanted to meet a man who had known Louis, as he was called in the family, in his later life in Monterey.

As I listened to the Scotchman and the Spaniard talk, knit together by this common thread, I found out that David Balfour, hero in "Kidnapped", was the family tie that bound John Stevenson of Montreal, our visitor, to Robert Louis Stevenson, once of Monterey. It was thrilling to think that the boy who fought so hard for his inheritance against his avaricious uncle, aided by a rebel, was a true life character and that here was one of his descendants.

Robert Louis Stevenson created characters that will always live for boys, but these two men had known him when they were boys and maybe indirectly helped him frame the boys in his books. One of them at least, a playmate of Duarte's and a nephew of Stevenson, is mentioned in those famous lines about "Little Louis Sanchez on the beach at Monterey." That man now lives in Oakland.

Senor Duarte and Mr. Stevenson talked of Robert Louis and the quarrel with his father over religious matters which prompted him to leave the life of John Stevenson in Edinburgh to step into the life of Manuel Duarte in Monterey; of his marriage, his life in Samoa and the fame that came to him almost too late in life to have him fully realize it. The life of Monterey went on outside but in the shop we were back in the Monterey of years ago, with the thin figure in the black coat watching the boys on the beach.

Sometime, when in Monterey, stop and see that sign and then go in and talk yourself to Senor Duarte and hear his tales, tales of how in the early mornings barefooted he would go down to the landing and catch all the fish in an hour that his family could eat, a family of 20. The table was always plentifully supplied with fish from the bay, the vegetables in the garden and milk from the cow. There was not much money to be made but there was happiness and leisure and sunshine, and Senor Duarte would not exchange the life of Monterey peninsula for any other. But he does believe some things outside the circle of hills should be seen. He is going to San Francisco very soon to the man-made Treasure Island and he is going to spend two weeks seeing it before coming back to his odd little shop with its odd, little sign in (shall I dare say it in the face of the Chamber of Commerce), an odd little town.

Craft Guild Has Enjoyable Affair

Members of the Carmel Guild of Craftsmen, as yet less than a year-old organization, and their guests met for an enjoyable supper at the Mission Ranch Club on Monday evening.

Among those attending were David S. Ball, Mrs. Bertha Bowen, Dorothy Bassett, Jane Bouse, Eloise Carwyle, Elaine Carter, Meda Davis, Cordelia Gilman, Johan Hagemeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Herron, Marion Howes, Bertha and Ellen von Kleinschmidt, Florence Sharon Brown, Margaret Lang, Horace Lyon, Dorothy Love, Anne Nash, Lennert Palme, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sayers, Myrtle Stoddard, Shirley Stoddard, Mr. and Mrs. George Seidenack, Gertrude Tooker, Marjorie Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Paulsen Visel, Frank Lloyd, Kit Whitman, Francis Whitaker and Mr. and Mrs. Morris McK. ## As To Owning Your Home

The obvious money-saving through ownership of a home is a point which any efficient broker should easily be able to make clear.

But over, and high above that practical reason, is a more vital one; the fact that home-ownership makes a man more definitely a part of his town, more vitally a part of his country, and so is laid the foundation for that living-force which builds up fine inspiration. And there grows into active being a flood of resourcefulness, initiative, high courage.

With those forces surrounding one, life is flooded with color and interest.

Select a home well within your own immediate financial bracket. The size of the home is unimportant. Ownership is vital.

Right now we offer a small home for $2950. Another most lovely home for $27,500. A wide range, but good value in each.

we went in. He greeted us hospitably and we told him why we had come.

"You knew Robert Louis Stevenson?" we asked.

"Indeed, I did!" replied Senor Duarte. "When we were kids we used to play over on the beach in front of the Custom House," he said and told how the wharf wasn't built then and there was a little landing where the barefooted boys of Monterey gathered in the sunny afternoons after school to watch the ships unloading and to see the boats and the things like denim unloaded to be traded for rich cargoes of California hides worth many times the price of the trade in denim and other needed goods.

There they played in the long afternoons and all through the summer days and down to the beach came a thin, white-faced, black-coated figure to sit and watch and dream, dream of a little boy, such as one of these who was taken by pirates to a far-off magical isle called Treasure Island, an island patterned on the rocky coast of the Monterey peninsula with its silver beaches and

"Night In Italy" Is Entertaining

One of the most entertaining, well worked out and satisfactorily executed events to be held at Carmel Mission in a long while was the "Night in Italy", given at Crespi Hall last Monday and Tuesday evenings. Resounding applause was its reward.

Particularly pleasing was the manner in which the entertainment worked together Carmel and Monterey elements and provided both a unique form of entertainment and a well harmonized grouping of talents.

Most enjoyable artistically was Noel Sullivan's "Infelice" from Ernani, sung with great feeling and in Sullivan's rich basso. The prologue from "I Pagliacci", sung by Wallace Doolittle, was especially well done and Angela De Mario Reilly's aria from "Cavalleria Rusticana", the touching "Voi Lo Sapete", was rendered with full dramatic quality. For warmth and good quality, Anna Royka, singing "Il Baccio", was highly pleasing.

Carol Canoles and Rose Funchess gave Spanish and Mexican versions of a sprightly dance, and, by popular vote requested by Mrs. Reilly, the less formal Mexican version won by a large majority. Madeline McDonogh's dance to the "Donkey's Serenade" from "The Firefly", was a pi-

STREET SCENE

To Armine Von Tempski who told me the story.

* * * *

*It was a drab and weary little street
With sidewalks broken by discouraged feet
That plodded up a steep and cheerless hill
Past rows of dingy houses in the chill
Gray murk of twilight where harsh street-lamps flared
With crude revealing light that starkly bared
The little houses' dreary shabbiness.
Two women trudged the street at dusk. The dress
Of one proclaimed the Widow. In her hopeless eyes
The dusty crepe of sorrow hung. Her sighs
Slurred into speech . . . a listless monotone,
"I hate this street," she said. "When you're alone
You dread each step that leads you to a door
Where no one waits. It means just one night more
To lie awake and think and pray and weep."
The Younger Woman with her tried to keep
The eager quickness of her footsteps spaced
To meet the Widow's plod. Her heart-beats raced
With gladdened speed to see a gleaming light
That marked a window's square against the night
Far down the street. "He's home," she thought, "HE'S there!"
The Widow frowned against the street-lamps' flare,
"I hate these lights. I hate this street," she said.
Again the Younger Woman's quick glance sped
Along the row of yellow globes, "Six, seven, eight . . .
The ninth one there is right beside our gate.
I love them so. I don't mind if they glare.
On dark or rainy nights they're always there."
Her voice was sweet with love's soft silver tunes,
"They make this street My street of Golden Moons."*

Adding much to the colorful theme of the evening were Carl Bensberg, who sang "O Sole Mio" and led "La Spanola", Rose and Frank Sino, Martin Artellan and Louis Machado who provided the accordion music.

Herbert Nelson, Ursula and George Ramos, Bill Booker, Gloria Hellam, Nina Di Benedetti, the pupils of Jesusa Fremont and others completed the cast of entertainers.

INCOMPLETE REPORT

Reports made to the county health officer last week included seven new cases of syphilis, one each of gonorrhea, measles and whooping cough. The returns were incomplete.

Mrs. N. Denis was also there for two weeks from San Francisco, spending her days riding and taking many interesting drives in the country.

Christian Science

"Christ Jesus" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, Feb. 26, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be: "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; . . . And whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him" (Col. 3: 16, 17). Other Bible citations will include: "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined. . . . For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulder; and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace. Of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end, upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom, to order it, and to establish it with judgment and with justice from henceforth even for ever. The zeal of the Lord of hosts will perform this" (Isa. 9: 2, 6, 7).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Throughout all generations both before and after the Christian era, the Christ, as the spiritual idea, the reflection of God,—has come with some measure of power and grace to all prepared to receive Christ, Truth. Abraham, Jacob, Moses, and the prophets caught glorious glimpses of the Messiah, or Christ, which baptized these seers in the divine nature, the essence of Love" (p. 333).

THEATER BUILDING

WHEN there is a World's Fair right in our midst — the Golden Gate International Exposition on Treasure Island in San Francisco Bay — what a grand chance it is for all of us to tell the world that it pays to live in California! We know that story! Let's tell that story to friends and relatives in person, by letter and through our own enthusiasm about the joys of living here in California.

All through California are parks, streets, buildings, stores and homes that have been made to "shine for '39." Your own home looking bright and fresh and clean this Spring will show no effects of winter. Green lawn, shrubs and gay flowers. The whiteness of your house, which thanks to clean Gas Heating, retains its bright newness. To visitors accustomed to Eastern winters, the homey comfort of easy chair living with Gas Heating, will be impressive proof that it pays to live in California.

R. J. Gale Describes Features of San Francisco World's Fair. Discusses Fine Arts, Music, Color

By R. J. GALE

San Francisco's long-awaited Golden Gate International Exposition may be just another world's fair by day, as a friend from Chicago assured me it was, but by night it becomes an enchanted land of magic light and glowing color. The modern Aladdins of electricity have rubbed their lamps and the result leaves little to be desired in the way of eye-filling and soul-stirring color, ranging in tone from the softest of pastels to the most brilliant of primary shades. So skillfully have they been blended that no harshness remains, and no over-emphasis offends. The setting, with the lights of San Francisco, Oakland and Berkeley in the distance, and the yellow lamps of both bridges twinkling like the amber jewels of two necklaces, could not be improved upon.

Color and music—these were the themes of the 1915 Exposition, and they are the outstanding features of the present Fair. Approaching Treasure Island, the first sounds to reach one's ears are those of the fluid and silvery-toned carillon bells, now installed in the Tower of the Sun, and after the exposition to be placed in Grace Cathedral, San Francisco. And like a gentle benediction, their musical tones follow the departing ferries across the waters of the bay on the homeward trip. The blare of 20 bands, symphonic music, the Don Cossack Choir, and many roving Spanish and Italian musicians, contributed to the opening day's musical fare, but it will be the tones of the carillon which will linger longest in one's memory.

Island Beautifully "Aged"

It does not appear probable that the architecture or outdoor sculpture of the Exposition will make any lasting contribution to either of these arts. The six main exhibit buildings do little more than present flat surfaces to reflect the lights, and serve as a background for the magnificent horticultural display of California's trees, shrubs, plants and flowers. The landscaping around the exhibit buildings, the various state, federal, and foreign buildings, is most effective; in fact many an eastern visitor is going to find it hard to believe that the exposition was not built in a park planted a score or more years ago. Peach trees in bloom, their petals blowing across the garden path, are events even in a California world's fair!

The commercial exhibits are the usual run-of-the-mill displays seen in most exhibitions. Unfortunately, many of them are not yet installed, and many others only partially installed. However, enough of them are functioning to occupy a week of anybody's time! A rather distinctive feature of many of these displays are the dioramas, in which the various component parts move. Ford Motors has a building of its own, the high points of its exhibit being the 27,000,000th Ford, and a replica of the Rouge River plant. The Pacific Gas and Electric Company shows a huge diorama contrasting modern city life with the pioneer era. This scene is truly tremendous in conception and execution; all the figures are life-size, and four-masted ships, distant cliffs, covered wagons, men and women, horses, mules and burros move in an exciting pageant which merges the past with the present. There are hundreds of commercial exhibits, of course, but none more exciting than this.

"Treasure Mountain"

The State of California and the Federal Government are well represented. An impressive state exhibit is Treasure Mountain, inside which may be observed the workings of gold, silver, and copper mining. Another state exhibit has for its theme, "Science in the Service of Man", and here we find the numerous ways in which science has contributed to the convenience and comfort of life. The University of California has exhibits in anthropology and paleontology which deserve more than passing interest. The architecture of the Federal Building is unique. Its exhibit is dominated by two huge murals, which if they are not among the world's most important outdoor murals, certainly must be its largest and most colorful!

The murals and bas-reliefs of the fair are among its most interesting features. They are to be seen everywhere, indoors and out. They relieve the monotony of flat surfaces, add life and color to the courts, and are larger than most muralists have dreamed of achieving until recent times. One of the most attention-compelling of the bas-reliefs is Jacques Schnier's "Dance of Life" near the Towers of the East.

Everywhere one goes on the fair grounds the sound of flowing water follows. There are numerous fountains, some simple, some elaborate, but all flowing, falling over terraces and cascades, and making pools in which the towers and arches are reflected. The fair, which looks so flat from the bridges and ferries, is wellterraced, and has many high places from which the fountains and courts may be viewed.

Sally Rand's Ranch

The Gayway, perhaps 60 per cent completed, offers the usual conglomeration of amusements—scenic railway, ski jump, Ripley's "Odditorium", ferris wheel, sand sculpture, Hindu rope trick, deep-sea divers, Sally Rand's Dude (Nude?) Ranch, and Singer's Midgets. I suspect the latter must be at least the grandchildren of the original Singer's Midgets which most of us met first at the old

San Francisco Orpheum!

The foreign nations exhibits are largely confined to the nations of South America and the Pacific Area, France, with her large building and comprehensive displays being a European exception. China and Japan vie with each other for first honors, and both have assembled an imposing and fascinating panorama of Oriental life and art.

Fine Arts Dominant

Dominating the entire exposition, however, and transcending in im-

THE LOCAL NEWSPAPER

A recent bulletin of the American Newspaper Publishers Association carries word of the newspaper advertising views of a large Western food chain organization. These views could be profitably emulated by industry and commerce in general.

In brief, this company believes that newspapers of regular publication, large and small, perform an important public service, and that advertising revenue is essential to keeping the price charged the subscriber low enough to bring the paper within financial reach of every possible family.

The company believes that when the so-called free circulation newspaper attempts to lure advertisers, using a lower rate as bait, "it is the beginning of a vicious circle—first, depleting the established publication; next, through bankruptcy, depriving the community of such news service; encouraging the free distribution paper into becoming a paid circulation and news distributing publication, followed by additional free circulation papers and thus completing the cycle."

Finally, the company instructs its division managers to avoid using handbills and free distribution papers except when absolutely necessary, and then to use the job shops of local regular newspapers where possible.

Here is a logical and progressive policy. The local newspaper fills a vital place in the American scene. It is more than a business—it is a record of the time in which we live. Through news and comment it brings to its readers knowledge of what is going on at home—as well as what is going on in the far flung capitals of the world. Measured by the rigid yardstick of dollars-and-cents-alone, the newspaper advertiser gets his full money's worth—and at the same time makes possible the existence of an irreplaceable institution.

THE COAST GUARD STATION

A committee has been named to begin work as a steering committee on the securing of a Coast Guard station for this area. Argyll Campbell, Allen Knight and Peter Ferrante, three prominent Carmelites, are members of the committee together with Monterey officials and residents and Captain Ralph Classic of the Fish and Game office. All four men are especially able to be members of such a committee through their various associations with sea-going groups. It is hoped that all those interested in bringing a Coast Guard station to this part of the coast will give them their backing. Not delaying in their work, the committee will meet this evening with S. B. Johnson, commander of the Coast Guard for this district.

BILLBOARDS COMING UP

Every Carmelite who is opposed to billboards cluttering up the borders of our highways and obscuring the beauties of nature should avail himself of the opportunity of attending a meeting scheduled for next Monday noon at the Hotel San Carlos. On this occasion state billboard legislation will be discussed. Now is the time, incidentally, to write our legislators urging billboard abatement and full protection of the scenic highways such as we have leading to Carmel.

The attack on billboards was begun several months ago in Carmel with Mayor Herbert Heron declaring that the city would do everything in its power to lead an assault upon billboard desecration of the highways.

*Come then, let us fill the cup
And fling into the fires of spring
The winter garments of repentance.
The bird of life
Has but little time to flutter
And the bird is on the wing.*

*For time will bring on summer
And the briers will bear green leaves
... As well as thorns ...
And they will be as sweet
As they are sharp.*

*The wind troubles the tired pines
And the stars look down
In silent indifference
Upon it all.*

—KAY VON L. KOCH.

TO MY MOTHER

*Little mother melancholy
I suspect your heart
Of holding grievous converse
In which I have no part;*

*For I have heard your lips belie
The trouble in your eyes
And I have known your inner tears
For love has made me wise.*

*And oh! the times I've prayed for words
To quiet all your fears
As you hushed mine with lullabies
When I was young in years!*

*Yes, little mother melancholy
I have found you out!
But not for love nor pity
Would I tell you of my doubt,*

*For well I know the part you play
As old as it is new;
Have you forgotten, little one,
That I am "mother" too?*

—LYNDAHL CHAPPLE.

In "Fire Against the Sky"

LET NO ONE TALK TO ME

*Let no one talk to me of temperance now.
The wine of life flows freely for my sake,
And I am sick of dull sobriety.
Give me the bowl, the bread of beauty break!*

*The scarlet dawn shall touch my lips with flame
And night that wears a coronet of stars
Upon the braided darkness of her hair
Shall hold me close to her and call my name.*

*Let no one counsel! I shall spend my days
With passion and with feasting, wantonly—
My love, the flaming dawn, the dusk; my bread,
The beauty broken on the land and sea.*

—IRENE WILDE.

THE FIRE HOUSE RADIO

The general public has not been slow to find something wrong with the statement that the Carmel fire company's radio outfit cost a mere $75. Nor are the members of the department who actually built the two sending and receiving sets pleased with having their radio tagged as a $75 outfit.

The facts are far different. Where the $75 comes in is in the donations toward building the outfit. That was the cost of the parts, sold without profit, which went into the sending set on the truck, and not counting any of the necessary accessories thereto.

There is also the receiving set on the truck, the sending set in the fire house, and the receiving set there, together with aerials, etc. Much of this equipment belongs to members of the department who are lending them to the Fire Department. If one piece of equipment were returned today to the owner, there would be no two-way radio system for the Fire Department.

Mention has not yet been made of the labor which went into constructing the radio system. Charles Guth and Irvin B. Foster, paid drivers, gave of their spare time and expert ability, to building the sets. Gil Severns not only loaned equipment but worked on the sets as well, not as a commercial radio man, but as a volunteer member of the fire department.

This further adds to the real dollars and cents value of the Fire Department's radio. And, out of respect for the estimated $2200 cost of a two-way police radio outfit for headquarters and five patrol cars, members of the Fire Department, who should "know their stuff" believe the figure "not out of line."

If we said that the Fire House radio is worth $750, or ten times the amount of actual cash donated toward the outfit, we wouldn't be far wrong. Even that is below the bid entered on a commercial set of similar equipment for the Police Department.

The fire laddies once again have gone far with a little.

TICKLE ON THE BUDGET

There is no doubt that there will be quite a legislative battle over the proposed budget of Governor Olsen, and leading the opposition to the $557,000,000 expenditures is State Senator Ed Tickle.

Senator Tickle, who is chairman of the Senate revenue and taxation committee announced this week:

"Independent studies of budgetary problems have provided substantial basis for the conclusion that no new taxation is required to finance adequately the essential functions of government."

He declared that preliminary studies had led to the conclusions that estimates of "essential expenditures" are too high and estimated revenue from present tax sources are too low.

Tickle cited President Roosevelt's assurance to business that no new Federal taxes will be asked, saying that as an example the state should follow to bolster business and employment stability.

Coming from a village where budgets and civic expenditures are closely scrutinized and any raise in tax rates vigorously protested, it is not surprising to find this Carmel man a leader in opposing a budget that is probably 25 per cent too high.

It must be getting pretty near time for the committee investigating possible sites for a city hall to report officially to the council.

At the time they were appointed they were given something like two weeks in which to come to a decision. It is to be sincerely hoped that this is not allowed to slide along.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

The name Spreckels flashed across the wires of the nation this week to make such sample headlines in the newspapers as these: Spreckels heirs-ess burned; Spreckels divorcee weds, but not sure where; Mrs. Spreckels elopes. Well, well, well!

Geraldine Spreckels, 22-year-old beauty who had a fling at acting with the Carmel Players, and didn't make such a hot thing of it in spite of some pretty negligee, was badly scorched when some of this frilly stuff caught fire in her Hollywood home. In the incidental flurry, her mother, Mrs. John D. Spreckels, Jr., flew to the bedside "to be in constant attendance." Reports were that Miss Spreckels suffered first and second degree burns on back and arms, no face damage.

Other Spreckels items: Roxana Gloria Brown Spreckels, 28, divorced wife of John D. Spreckels III, and Ogden E. Hunsaker, said they were married "somewhere in Ventura county by a roadside justice of the peace", according to the Associated Press. Mrs. Alma De Bretteville Spreckels and Elmer M. Aul, Santa Barbara, are honeymooning following an elopement to Reno, also according to the A. P.

Professor Francis E. Lloyd plucks another honorary Doctorate of Science, this time from Masaryk University in Czechoslovakia. The diploma came last week in the mail. Dr. Lloyd missed the title of "doctor" in 1914, when war broke out as he packed for Germany to receive a diploma at Bonn.

We have it on good authority, names and all, too, that a certain young man came out from the East and, living with relatives on a ranch up the Carmel Valley, soon heard of wild boar hunting. One day he set out, rifle in hand, alone, to hunt himself some wild bacon and ham. Climbing steep canyon walls he finally approached a wild boar sleeping on a ridge. Knowing from hearsay the danger of wounding a boar, he looked around for a handy tree. He edged up to one and took aim. His shot winged true, and the prostrate body made a queer little death jump and lay quiet. After a short wait, he crept closer and fired again, just to make sure. Then, after another wait, he crept closer. Gingerly he got within a few feet of the body when the markings of bark became visible. He gave the log a kick and went home. For days he brooded upon his strange hunting trip, but finally he decided the story upon himself was too good to keep. And, now, up the valley, they laugh with the hunter come out of the East.

A man with an idea in tennis is Dick Skeen, coach of Barbara Winslow, who visited his protegee at the Community Hospital where Barbara has been ill for the past month. Skeen was her coach from the beginning, and it was as one of a selected group of ten promising players that Barbara this year, in spite of her illness which began a year and a half ago, rose to No. 4 in the national women's ranking. Skeen worked with these selected players until they won their way into the foremost ranks. Among those who are well known are Jimmy Wade, Eleanor Purdy, Jane Stanton and Jack Kramer, besides Miss Winslow. Skeen is now on tour with Don Budge, Ellsworth Vines and Bruce Barnes, as a barnstorming professional team.

Robert Lee and Don Lee, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Lee, who were recently here for the Lees' golden wedding, last week were invited to the testimonial dinner for W. C. Fields on the occasion of Fields' 40 years in the show business. The party, given by the Masquers of Hollywood, was attended by such figures as Dudley Field Malone, George Arliss, Leslie Howard, Herbert Marshall, H. Atwater Kent, Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen, Eddie Cantor, Harold Lasky, and a great many others. Willie Collier, comedian for many years with Webber and Field, was toastmaster. Robert Lee wrote his father a full account of the affair with emphasis on McCarthy, who is a great favorite.

Reader's Reaction

Mr. Randal Cockburn
The Carmel Pine Cone
Box G-1
Carmel, California

Dear Mr. Cockburn:

I regret the delay in answering your letter of Feb. 6 due to the fact I was on an extended field trip.

Under the circumstances it will not be possible for me to answer the questions you raise. In our capacity as advisor to the board of trustees we have made certain recommendations concerning the proposed high school sites. I can only say that if the board does not see fit to act on those recommendations, or if important new elements enter the situation I will be glad to come to the district again and reconsider the problem.

I am sure it will not help in any way for me to attempt to enlarge upon certain statements made during my informal discussion with the board and the building committee at Carmel. It is not the purpose of this department to force a certain site upon people of any school district but simply to aid the district in solving site selection problems to the best advantage of the school children and the taxpayers.

Very truly yours,
CHAS. BURSCH,
Chief, Division of Schoolhouse Planning.

Juliette Low as Founder Recalled

Five Girl Scouts who make up the Juliette Low committee met at the home of Mrs. Fred Nybro recently for a Juliette Low tea and to hear the story of their founder, then return to their troops and tell it to their fellow scouts. This committee consists of a Girl Scout from each peninsula troop and the chairman, Mrs. Nybro. Its purpose is to interest Girl Scouts in contributing to the Juliette Low Memorial Fund and thus to join with the Girl Scouts of America in carrying out the program of enabling Girl Scouts to attend the International encampment at Adelboden, Switzerland. If each Girl Scout contributes 1c the fund will be sufficient to send 13 girls from other countries and nine from the United States to this summer encampment. As more Scouts add to the fund more girls will be enabled to receive this coveted award.

Last summer 18 girls from nine different countries spent two and a half weeks at the encampment in the Swiss Alps, maintained by the Juliette Low Memorial Fund.

Those present at the tea at Mrs. Nybro's were Barbara Foster, Troop 8, Pacific Grove; Gloria Espinosa, Troop 5, New Monterey; Evelyn Oldemeyer, Troop 13, Seaside; Winona McGinnes, Troop 12, Oak Grove, and Marjorie Hicks, Troop 6, Del Monte.

After hearing of the life and work of Juliette Low the Scouts had a Valentine party and then enjoyed studying a collection of local shells.

Juliette Lowe was a little southern girl who lived at Savannah, Ga. She loved animals and often rode with her father. She had a tame mockingbird, a parrot and a macaw.

Part of her married life was spent

Carmelites Going to League Meet

Fourteen members of the Monterey County League of Women Voters have already arranged to attend the Northern Conference meeting to be held next Friday in the California building on Treasure Island, Miss Lydia G. Weld, local president, announced this week. It was expected that during the coming week at least one more carload would join the caravan from here. Mrs. James Ainsworth is acting as chairman of transportation for this event, and others planning to attend are asked to call her to make arrangements, not later than Thursday. Mrs. Ainsworth is at her phone from 8 to 10 each morning to take these calls, and her number is Carmel 666-W.

Those now planning to go from here are: Mrs. Francis A. Carl, Mrs. F. A. Greatwood, Mrs. Joseph G. Hooper, Mrs. L. O. Kellogg, Mrs. J. P. Sandholdt, Mrs. B. D. Marx Greene, Mrs. W. F. Kilpatrick, Miss Ada Howe Kent, Miss Ida Maynard Curtis, Dr. Bowen Hittell, Miss Clara G. Hinds, Miss Orre B. Haseltine, Miss Anne Grant and Miss Ruth Huntington.

The program will open at 10 in the in England and it was there that she met Sir Robert Baden Powell and he imparted to her some of his enthusiasm for scouting. Her first troop of girls in this country was at Savannah, Ga. Mrs. Lowe saw the great possibilities in Girl Scout work in this country and she gave unstintingly of her time to the work. She spoke for the work in most of the big cities in this country and helped organize troops. She financed many troops and at one time sold her pearls to raise money for the Girl Scouts.

morning with a discussion of the state legislative program, Miss Aline Lamson speaking on the street trades bill and Mrs. Paul Eiel on relief. Other subjects to be covered at the morning session are finance, educational facilities for migratory children, legislative study groups and foreign policy.

Luncheon will be at 12:30, and afterwards the conference will break up into round table groups for study of relief—Mrs. C. G. Emmons, Salinas, of the local league heads that one—health insurance, public personnel, foreign policy, legislation, league finance and child welfare.

Mr. and Mrs. Parr, who were married on Feb. 8, spent a few days of their honeymoon in Carmel last week with Mrs. Parr's aunt, Mrs. Margaret Grant. Mrs. Parr, the former Daphne Lodwick, visited Mrs. Grant here a few years ago. The Parris went to San Francisco from Carmel, and after a visit there will return to Vancouver, B. C., where they will make their home.

A picture of Mrs. Paul Winslow of Pebble Beach came to us this week. Mrs. Winslow is shown, skis over her shoulder, poles in hand before a background made up of the Badger Pass Ski House and tall snow-laden trees. The club is in that paradise of winter sportsters, Yosemite National Park.

Red hair flying, "Ummie" was on her way up Ocean avenue to the post office to dispatch the parcel to her publishers, Dodd, Mead and Company. "Ummie" and her husband, Al Ball, spent last week-end in San Carlos visiting her great friend, Barrett Willoughby, author of "Spawn of the North", and her husband, Larry O'Connor, writer of westerns. Mrs. O'Connor's latest book, "Lover Come Back", has also been recently dispatched to her publishers and the first installment will appear this month in American Magazine.

Frank Wickman of Carmel Highlands, who is spending the winter in New York, will leave there on April 18 and motor home by way of Mexico. Mr. Wickman will entertain at dinner in his New York studio on Feb. 28 in honor of Myra Hess.

Dick Bare spent several days in Oakland and the Bay area this week. Dick went up to see the Fair and also look over and select new films for the Filmarte theater.

Miriam Hopkins, dressed in slacks, was seen walking up and down Ocean avenue this week, peering in the store windows and looking as though she were thoroughly enjoying Carmel.

Dr. Harriet Hardy of Northfield, Mass., has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gilbert in Carmel for the past two weeks. Dr. Hardy is now staying with Mrs. Gilbert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Wiley, on Lincoln street, and expects to remain here for several weeks. Guests this week at the Gilbert's home in the Eighty Acres were Mr. and Mrs. Keith Shore of Vancouver, who have been on a trip to Arizona, southern California and Mexico and stopped in Carmel on their way to San Francisco and the Fair before returning to their home.

The Republican Women's Club of the Monterey Peninsula held a meeting on Monday night at the American Legion hall when W. C. Thelle spoke on "Americanism." Mrs. Sally McCreery was the chairman for the evening and James H. Thoburn introduced Mr. Thelle. Following the talk there was a social hour in charge of Mrs. G. H. Totten, assisted by Mrs. Daisy Taylor, Mrs. M. J. Peterson, Mrs. E. H. Ewig, Mrs. McCreery and Mrs. W. R. Moore.

Betty Horst, well known San Francisco modern dancer, was the week-end guest in Carmel of Mr. and Mrs. Byington Ford. Mrs. Ford leaves today for San Francisco where she will spend several days and see Trudi Schoop dance on Friday evening.

Guest of the Stewart Hotel in San Francisco this week is Mrs. Alice Josselyn of Carmel who is spending a week or ten days in the city seeing the Fair.

Professor and Mrs. Henry Dike Sleeper, who have been spending the winter in Carmel, are visiting in San Francisco this week. Early next week they will start on an extensive tour of Southern California before returning to their home, Camp Marbury, Vergennes, Vt. They will be the guests of the Southern California Smith College Club at its annual meeting in Los Angeles on March 11.

Flags flying and sun shining Carmel celebrated Washington's birthday this week and to top it off the oldtimers of the town met at Pine Inn for luncheon and pleasant discussion and reminiscences of the days when . . . Children of the town, freed from school for the holiday, took advantage of the perfect weather to go again to the beach or walk into the nearby fields and canyons to pick bunches of johnny-jump-ups, shooting stars, buttercups and other spring flowers. They also brought back the first branches of lilac and lupin that will soon turn the hills from their bright green to vivid blue. All these blossoms are certain evidence that spring is really with us and we, too, may blossom forth in the gay spring clothes displayed in the shop windows, in spite of the tiny patches of snow still to be found on the highest hills. Down at the Green Room the Carmel Players are busy with one-act plays and rehearsals for their next major production, "The Pursuit of Happiness", while at the Mission the new San Carlos Music Society took their audiences for a gay and colorful Night in Italy.

The regular monthly meeting of the Evening Auxilliary of the Carmel Community Church was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. E. Frederick Smith on Viscaïno street. The ladies of the church who gathered with their sewing or knitting to sit around the pleasant fire while they worked were Mrs. Alice Askew, chairman, Mrs. Wilber McKee, Mrs. Everett Smith, Mrs. Victor Graham, Mrs. Howard Timbers, Mrs. Edna Lockwood, Mrs. Helen Bowles and their hostess, Mrs. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Cockburn spent last week-end motoring in the northern part of the State. They left on Thursday for Ukiah, Clear Lake and Santa Rosa, the latter being visited on their return journey which brought them back to Carmel on Monday evening.

Tomorrow in Santa Cruz, Grace Case, formerly of Carmel, and Donald Clark, well known on the peninsula, will be married at a quiet ceremony. Willard Whitney will be present at the wedding. Mrs. Case will be remembered in Carmel as owning "Engracia", the charming, little hat shop on Lincoln street and now having a concession at the Fair along with "Inez", the maker of those fascinating icebox flowers. Mr. Clark is the district manager of the Shell Oil Company. Following their wedding the couple will make their home in Carmel.

E. Frederick Smith, more familiarly known in Carmel as the Plant-smith, will return today from a week in Berkeley where he has been attending the annual pest control conference and state convention for those connected with this work. The meetings of the conference are being held at the University of California with professors giving talks on the various phases of the work. The conference is attracting nationwide interest. The convention held at the Lake Merritt Hotel is the regular annual meeting of the pest control people for the State of California.

Lloyd Whiffin, who with his family formerly had a home in the Eighty Acres in Carmel, is once more here. Mr. Whiffin makes his home now in Alameda. He will be remembered in Carmel as running a fascinating little store called "Window Witch" which specialized in things brought from India.

Mrs. D. T. Schulte, the former Constance Morse, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. H. W. Morse in Carmel for the past week. Mrs. Morse and Mrs. Schulte left yesterday for San Francisco where they will spend a few days before Mrs. Schulte returns to her home in Rochester, Minn., where her husband is a doctor connected with the famous Mayo Clinic.

Mr. and Mrs. Terence Preece, who have been spending several months on the peninsula during the polo season, left on Tuesday for Santa Monica and after a brief stay there will return to their Long Island home. Mr. Preece is one of the best known horsemen in the United States.

Mrs. E. Burnett Hammond of Banff, Alberta, and Nassau, Bahamas, who is wintering in Carmel, is at present in Pasadena where she will spend a week. Mrs. Hammond was accompanied on her trip south by her two daughters, Tilda and Agnes.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Monroe of Hatton Fields entertained at a cocktail party on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence M. Judd from Hawaii are staying at Pine Inn. The former Governor of Hawaii and his wife are on a motor trip.

Mrs. James W. A. Smith of Pebble Beach is leaving shortly for St. Louis, Mo., where she will make an extended stay.

Dick Magee of Austin, Nev., is vacationing at the present time on the peninsula where he has many friends.

Mrs. John M. Albee leaves tomorrow for Los Angeles where she has been called by the serious illness of her mother.

Hilary Belloc of Sausalito was the overnight guest on Monday of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Masten at their Carmel Highlands home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burgh of Brentwood, California, who have been spending a month in Carmel, have so enjoyed their stay here that they will remain another month.

Winners of the weekly bridge tournament at the Mission Ranch Club on Monday evening were John Thompson and Thom Neikirk, while Mrs. Myrtle McLean and Bert Spencer were second.

Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Fuller and Mr. and Mrs. William L. Hudson are once more at home in Carmel and Monterey, respectively, after a holiday spent enjoying winter sports at Sun Valley, Idaho.

Mrs. Evan Wild of Carmel left on Wednesday for San Francisco where she will spend a week visiting friends. Mr. and Mrs. Wild are going to San Jose for the Marian Anderson concert on Tuesday evening.

The many friends of Dr. and Mrs. Edward S. Trezevant will be glad to learn that they have returned to Carmel, and plan to reopen the Church of Truth on Dolores street, between Eighth and Ninth, on Sunday, March 5. Miss Bacon and Miss Mapson will be with them.

"Kiss the Boys" Telfer Reading

"Kiss the Boys Goodbye", current New York comedy success, is the play chosen by Ronald Telfer for his first reading here on March 11. The reading will as usual be sponsored by the American Legion Auxilliary and held in the Legion Hall at 8:30. Proceeds will go to the organizations welfare work.

This play was written by Claire Booth, author of "The Women." It is a satire on the long quest for a girl to play the part of Scarlett O'Hara in the movie version of "Gone with the Wind." The girl, Velvet O'Toole, is finally found in the deep south and brought north. Around this situation the play's good fun is built. Tentative selections for the next two readings are "Fabulous Invalid" by George Kaufman and "The American Way."

The marriage of Miss Frances Ford of Carmel to Lieutenant C. C. Harvey of Fort Sill, Okla., takes place tomorrow afternoon in St. John's Chapel, Del Monte, the Reverend Theodore Bell officiating. Mrs. A. J. Kirsch of San Francisco will be the bride's only attendant and Lieutenant Harvey's best man will be Lieutenant John Tillson of Fort Bliss, Tex. The reception following the ceremony will be held at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. James Parke.

When "You Can't Take It With You" comes to Carmel there will be an opportunity to see not only the picture but the young daughter of the madcap family played by Jean Arthur, who summered in a house on the Point last year and who will wear in the picture a suit woven at Carmel's own Fraser Looms. It is a grey and yellow tweed and Mrs. Fraser and Jessie Joan Brown are anxiously waiting the appearance of their suit.

Miss Jean Gargiulo entertained on Saturday evening at a barbecue supper in honor of Miss Dorothy Smith of Carmel who was celebrating her 18th birthday. The barbecue was held at the Gargiulo's Scenic Drive home and those invited to the affair were Sarah Jones, Letha Hicks, Barbara Crompton, Tommy Harbolt, Jimmy Critchlow, Allen Wood, Harry Butts, George McReynolds and Joe McEldowney.

Married last Saturday by Judge Ray Baugh were Flora Rayguza and Ben Figueroa, both of Carmel. Witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Rafael Torres of Carmel. Mr. and Mrs. Figueroa are settled in their cottage on Santa Rita street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Miller spent Tuesday in San Francisco. They did not have time to visit the Fair, but Thelma did get her gardenia without which a visit to San Francisco would be incomplete for the Millers.

Dr. Frederick Woodward, vice-president of the University of California and former dean of Stanford law school, is seriously ill in the Monterey Hospital with lobar pneumonia. Dr. and Mrs. Woodward arrived on the peninsula ten days ago.

Dr. Hugh F. Dormody and Miss Florence Grimes were married at 4 o'clock last Sunday afternoon in the Carmel home of Dr. Dormody's brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Horace Dormody. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Stewart Campbell Potter, of the Monterey Presbyterian Church. The bride, who wore a traveling suit of rose-rust wool trimmed with shirred beaver, a matching felt hat, and a corsage of green orchids, was given in marriage by her father, John B. Grimes of Portland, Ore. Mrs. John Prendergast of San Francisco was the bride's only attendant and Dr. Dormody's best man was his brother, Dr. Horace Dormody. Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom left on a motor trip to Palm Springs and Boulder Dam. On their return they will be at home to their friends at their apartment at 576 Hartnell street in Monterey. Guests included John F. Grimes of San Francisco, the bride's twin brother, and Mrs. Grimes, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gerard, Mr. and Mrs. John Prendergast, all of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos S. Stanley of Del Monte, and Mr. and Mrs. Ashton Stanley of Pebble Beach.

Carl Von Saltza is once more on the peninsula after a stay in San Francisco with Jo Mora. They took an apartment in the city while they were busy at Treasure Island installing Mr. Mora's historical diorama on Treasure Island.

Mrs. Rex McBride entertained at dinner on Tuesday evening when her guests were Don Blanding, Mrs. D. T. Schulte and Mr. and Mrs. Ranald Cockburn.

Three Women Important In 'Pursuit of Happiness'

Three women, with well-contrasted roles, represent the complete feminine contingent in "Pursuit of Happiness", the comedy drama of Revolutionary times which Carmel Players will offer as their next major production at the Filmarte Theater, March 2, 3, 4 and 5.

Playing opposite Lee Crowe in the leading feminine role is dainty blonde Margenette Meldrim as "Prudence Kirkland", daughter of one of the embattled Connecticut farmers and militiamen. Like all well-brought-up damsels of the period, Prudence is shy, modest and circumspect, but that does not prevent her making a "proposition" which appears at first extraordinarily shocking to the young Austrian deserter from the Hessian mercenary forces. Miss Meldrim grew up on the peninsula, and as a child was a member of the children's theater which Morris Ankrum conducted as part of the activities of Edward G. Kuster's Theater of the Golden Bough. She acted in Monterey high school plays, and has appeared in two recent peninsula productions: Carmel Players' "Night of January 16" a year ago, and as "Fanny Morgan", the drunkard's wife, in "Ten Nights in a Bar-Room" at the First Theater.

Yankee Temperament

Mother of "Prudence" in "Pursuit of Happiness" is "Comfort Kirkland", played by Helen Coolidge. While Comfort is a typically puritanical Revolutionary housewife, regarding rum as a servant of the devil, she is also human. At one crucial point in the play she puts aside her scruples against hard liquor in any form and advises her husband to "stick to the applejack", instead of resorting to less rigorous methods of persuasion. Miss Coolidge has a good understanding of the New England temperament as depicted in this play, for she grew up in Vermont. She came to Carmel to live about two years ago, and aside from the theater is chiefly interested in writing poetry. She has written books and a play for children, and is listed in the Biography of Modern Poets. Her previous theatrical experience includes work with amateur groups in Vermont, a part in "The Night of January 16", and workshop activities.

"Inchling" Original

Last time Hildredth Masten appeared on the local stage, she was seen by a Hollywood scout and offered a screen test. Incredible as it seems, she refused. Hildredth acts in amateur plays for fun and has no desire to return to the professional stage,—"return", because some years ago she was a professional dancer, and toured for two years with Theodore Kosloff's ballet in "Scheherazade". As a child she played dewdrops and fairies and autumn leaves in Forest Theater productions. She says "I was always having butterfly wings pinned on me." She was in the original production of "Inchling", as one of the props, according to her version.

After growing up and becoming Mrs. Richard Masten she found herself once again in Carmel, and right back in the theater. She has played varied roles in many productions, including "Saturday's Children", "Thirteenth Chair", "The Barker", "Tommy", "The Spider", "Ladies of the Jury", "The Trial of Mary Dugan", "Double Door", "Stage Door" and "You Can't Take It With You." Last year while the Mastens were living for a while in the bay region, Hildredth adorned a production of the Ross Players, "Berkeley Square". Sixty women tried out for the part, and Hildredth got it.

If Hollywood doesn't come after her again after seeing her in "Pursuit of Happiness" it will only be because the scouts are not properly on their job. She has a broad comedy role as "Meg", wayward girl of the staid Connecticut village, whose feeble powers of resistance melt entirely when confronted with the brass buttons of a colonel of the Virginia Light Horse.

"You Can't Take It With You" Here

Frank Capra, director, and a perfect cast bring the theater's most amazing gallery of characters to heart-warming life on the screen in Columbia's "You Can't Take It With You," showing Sunday to Tuesday at the Carmel theater.

Jean Arthur, more adorable than ever as Alice Sycamore, is comparatively sane but crazy about her boss-son. Lionel Barrymore is in his most lovable role as Grandpa Vanderhof, who suddenly decided one day to quit work and have fun. James Stewart is Tony Kirby, the rich man's son who'd rather be a poor girl's husband. Edward Arnold is the millionaire who learns that the best things in life are free. The famous Pulitzer Prize play is triumphantly brought to the screen in all its heart-warming humanity by the shining talents of an inimitable director and a cast rising to the occasion like the great artists they are.

On Monday evening, prize winners in the $250,000 moving pictures quiz contest will be made known at the Carmel Theater, according to Manager L. J. Lyon.

San Jose Choir to Sing March 3

The program was announced this week for the concert of the San Jose State a capella choir which will be heard in a concert at Sunset Auditorium on Friday, March 3.

The visit of the San Jose group is sponsored by the students of Sunset school, and admission will be only 35 cents general admission and 20 cents for students.

William J. Erlendson, director of the San Jose State choir, has prepared the following program: Hosanna, Gloria (Palestrina); Tenebrae Factae Sunt (Palestrina); Let Thy Merciful Ears, O Lord (Weelkes); All Breathing Life, Sing and Praise Ye the Lord (Bach).

Oherubim Song (Tschellshcheff); Cloud Messengers (Cul); The Spring Time of the Year (Vaughan Williams); O Praise Ye God (Tschalkowsky).

Glory be to God (Rachmaninoff); The Three Kings, Catalonian Nativity Song (arr. Lluís Romeu); How Fair the Church of Christ Shall Stand (Christiansen); Hodie, Christus Natus est (Willan).

Musical Events On Carmel List

Robert Casadesus, the pianist whose playing has caused such a furore in New York this winter, will bring to a close the current series of the Carmel Music Society. But before his concert comes that of the famous Pasquier String Trio on March 10.

In the last few years the amount of chamber music broadcast has increased very noticeably which is pretty good evidence that the public demand for this type of music is becoming much greater. The Pasquier Trio is the finest playing today and will bring to Carmel a program of great melodic beauty. They will play at Sunset Auditorium on Friday, March 10, when the doors will be closed at 8:30 so that the audience

"SOUTH RIDING" AT FILMARTE

Selected by the National Board of Review as one of the ten best films of 1938, "South Riding", the Alexander Korda production from the Winifred Holtby novel, is in its fourth day at the Filmarte, and will continue over the week-end ending on Sunday.

Heading a thoroughly fine cast are Edna Best and Ralph Richardson, the latter having been seen in two recent pictures, "The Divorce of Lady X" and "The Citadel." Edmund Gwenn, of Mr. Bonnyfeather fame in "Anthony Adverse," supports Miss Best and Mr. Richardson, while Ann Todd's performance as the mentally deranged wife is second to none.

Set against an intriguing background of authentic rural life in England, it is a revealing document of Yorkshire living, and the film ranks as one of the most interesting portraits of public personages in a small English community ever produced. For standout performances, credit must go to Ralph Richardson as the tradition harried squire, while Ann Todd contrives a hauntingly realistic glimpse into another world with her will not be disturbed by late comers interrupting the music.

The $1,200,000 Chinese concession at the World's Fair will cover seven acres.

characterization of an insane and imprisoned wife.

"South Riding" has not only been rated as one of the year's ten best, but has been received by enthusiastic audiences wherever it has been shown, and it has had long engagements in Carmel, New York and Philadelphia.

BEANS ON ALL TABLES

Gale Describes Features of World's Fair in S. F.

portance any showing ever given on the Pacific Coast, is the Fine Arts Exhibition. Priceless gems of Italian, Flemish, French, and English art, covering between three and four hundred years, many of them never before seen outside the European museums which house them, may be seen, admired, and studied. More than a dozen museums are represented, chief among them the Louvre, National Portrait Gallery, London, the Hals Museum, Haarlem, and the Royal Museum, Brussels. And best of all, there are scores of great works of art, not only the usual meager few. Van Dyck's "Queen Henrietta Maria", Millet's "Man With a Hoe", and "The Angelus", Hogarth's and Turner's from England, the list runs on right down to such moderns as the French Picasso and Dora, and the German, Karl Hofer, whose paintings have been recently barred in Germany by Hitler. An idea of the thrills in store for the art lover is indicated by the fact that in the same gallery room on the opening day was Verrochio's sculptured "David", and the oils, "Nascita di Venere" by Botticelli, and Raffaello's "Madonna".

Decorative Arts

Of almost equal interest is the display of Decorative Art—book-bindings, modernistic rooms and room decorations, draperies, glass, tapestries, and pottery. Mrs. Thorpe's famous miniature rooms are here done in perfect detail and covering every period of interior decoration in 300 years through Louis XIV, Marie Antoinette, and the Directoire periods in France, and from George III through the Hepplewhite and Victorian in England.

Again and again one will want to see this exhibit of Fine Arts and Decorative Arts. It furnishes one of the chief motifs of the Exposition, and if Treasure Island had no other attractions the sculpture, painting, and decorative arts shown in the Fine Arts building would be reason enough for visiting the Fair many, many times.

W. P. Kirkpatrick of Vancouver, B. C., was at La Playa Hotel for several days visiting with other Vancouver friends.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Zwanenberg from London, England, were at La Playa for two days on their way to San Francisco for the opening day of the Fair for which they have come such a long distance.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Baalin from Alberta, Canada, were golfing before going to the Fair.

Miss Leslie Baer, San Francisco, is on a month's vacation and is spending most of her time with a tennis racquet in her hand. She was visited by her aunt and uncle, Dr. and Mrs. Baer, San Mateo, over the week-end, all staying at La Playa.

Mrs. Elizabeth Satoris of Seattle, who is a frequent visitor here, is down for a month's rest.

From London, La Playa has R. M. Stevenson, his sister, Mrs. K. Lang, and her daughter, Miss M. H. Lang. They plan to stay another week, then go to the Fair, and so back home to England.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Koshland of San Mateo are at La Playa spending a few days with Mrs. Koshland's mother, Mrs. A. Haas and Dudley Sicher from New York. Here with them are Mrs. Haas' nephew, Wm. Bransten from San Francisco, and his bride of a few months, the former Sue Victorius from New York.

Pine Inn has registered this week Mr. and Mrs. Claude Beatty, San Francisco; Dr. and Mrs. John Huston, Ottumwa, Iowa; Miss Virginia Comer of the Waldorf Astoria, New York City; Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Fullerton and Mrs. J. Sturdy, Vancouver, B. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Jurn Arlaw, Helena, Mont.; Mr. and Mrs. William F. Muller, El Segundo; Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Manning and their daughter, Margaret, Palo Alto; Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Salter and Miss Phyllis Salter, Vancouver, B. C.; Mr. and Mrs. George Cato, Santa Barbara; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stoops of Connecticut; Dr. Van Der Valk, San Francisco; Thomas H. M. McGraw, Bracton, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Mamlock, San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Letchworth and a party composed of four generations of their family who came to Carmel to celebrate a birthday.

Mrs. M. E. Collis of Summerland, B. C., is spending some time at Pine Inn and has joined the Carmel Art Institute for special work under Burton Boundey.

Miss Hilda Otto of Calgary, Alberta, who has been staying in Carmel for several weeks, has now extended her stay for another month. Miss Otto is stopping at Pine Inn.

Highlands Inn continues to be the mecca of honeymooners and staying there this week were the following newly-married couples: Mr. and Mrs. J. Malloy, San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. T. Riveroll, San Jose; Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Ringer, Sacramento; Mr. and Mrs. P. Carnell, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Johnston, San Leandro and Mr. and Mrs. N. T. Shelton, Chico.

Forest Lodge reports that Miss Grace Reamer Street of Colorado and Miss Elsie May Kirker of Sacramento who were traveling together spent several days with the lodge this week. On Wednesday Mrs. Forrest C. Varrell and the Misses Effie and Alice Collins of Rye, N. H., arrived to spend a few days in Carmel. They are touring the United States, having left their Eastern home early in January and after leaving here will go to San Francisco and the Fair.

Carmel Inn have with them at present Miss J. W. Steffelaar of The Hague, Holland. Miss Steffelaar is spending a month in Carmel and enjoys it here very much. Other guests at the Inn are Thomas J. MacKay of Glasgow, Scotland and Miss Marion Wheaton of Booth Bay Harbor, Maine. Miss Wheaton is making a stay of several weeks in Carmel.

Peter Pan Lodge has a most interesting guest this week, Paul Muni of movie fame, who is vacationing here. Mr. Muni has with him Mr. and Mrs. A. Finkel and Vladimir Sokaloff, all of Hollywood. Mrs. Grant-Dalton of Lyndhurst, England is also at the Lodge. Other guests are Miss Margaret Blaney of Hollywood and Mrs. Arthur Barnett of Santa Barbara. Week-enders at Peter Pan were Dr. Rudolf von Urban, formerly of Vienna and now living in San Francisco, Dr. von Urban is a noted psychologist. Dr. and Mrs. William Palmer Lucas and Dr. and Mrs. S. R. Sherman, all of San Francisco.

Wolf Rebuffed: $25 Does It

By BERNARD ROWNTREE

An inquiring citizen turned on me. After asking questions about the average contemplated approximate assessment per lot to pay for the sewage treatment and disposal plant and its connecting sewer lines, the inquiring citizen turned on me and asked, "Don't you know that $15 may mean life or death to some of these dear old ladies? Don't you realize that many of them live on the income from renting one house and it is not always easy to rent? Don't you know that a number of these dear old people only have an income of $25 a month, and $15 is a lot of money for them to pay?"

I was about to explain that the assumed cost of $15 a lot was an average and if any one owned a lot worth $500, it could hardly be expected that their assessment would be as much as for a person owning a $1500 lot, but I was overcome by my emotions imagining a dear old lady holding the fort in her home on a 40-foot lot and living on the $25 a month income she received for the rent of her other house on another 40-foot lot, when I realized I had become balled up in my arithmetic for I had been told she owned only one lot.

Well, anyway, probably she lives in the house she rents to some one else and gets $25 a month for letting them enjoy the spectacle of two living cheaper than one and how to keep the wolf from the door on $25 a month, or something. You work it out.

After getting away from the confusion of it all, it occurred to me that nothing had been said about the benefits. Only the cost had been mentioned.

So what about the chances of renting at any price if we had no street sewers? Would our visitors continue to arrive, would people buy land and build, if our 3000 population disposed of all its sewage (probably 300,000 gallons a day) into cess-pools?

If this amount of moisture came down as rain, it would mean nine inches of rainfall in one year over the entire city of Carmel.

What about our boasted and valuable beach and coast line if an increasing population continues much longer to dump raw sewage as is done now?

What about the value of property and Carmel as a city of homes if conditions are allowed to grow worse year by year?

GIVE THAT A THOUGHT.

Different people have different ideas as to how much rent to ask, but few renting agents would expect an owner to demand $25 a month unless the property is worth at least $2500.

Looking at it that way, is $15 such an awful lot of money to invest to preserve and increase the value of property and insure its rentability?

THINK THAT OVER.

ALL SAINTS CHOIR MOTHERS— HOLD LUNCHEON MEETING

Members of the Choir Mothers' Association of all Saints' Church were the guests at luncheon of the Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Hulswé at the Rectory on Tuesday. After luncheon a business meeting was held and plans were made for the future. During this part of the meeting Mrs. H. S. Patton made a presentation of the "Order of the Garter" to Mrs. Carl Rohr, who thus became the first member of this Berkeley Order in Carmel.

Portable Lights for Fire Dept.

Additional equipment for the Fire Department arrived this week in the form of 1250-watt portable outfit which provides two flood lights and one spotlight and may be taken anywhere independent of the truck.

Power is supplied by a gasoline motor and the complete set is easily carried anywhere. The two flood-lights are 500 watts each and the spot is 250 watts.

Chief Robert Leidig points out that in case of power failure the lights could be used for numerous purposes. He said that recently when power failure interrupted a delicate emergency operation, similar equipment was brought into the operating room and the operation went ahead.

The outfit is regarded as a particularly useful piece of equipment for actual fire at night.

Use of foreign oils in oleomargarine increased last year.

WHAT THEY SEEM!

This is the British Lounge*
Model—that flatters the figure—improves the appearance.

And especially is this true of Saxon-weave Cheviot. For, like all cheviots, it seems rough—but unlike other cheviots, it feels soft! And because of this inherent soft feel it drapes more gracefully and takes to style deftly.

And since "rough" cheviots are quite the vogue right now, why not wear the recommended cheviot that means a smarter appearance for you.
